Farmer Wins First Prize With Painting Of Self Portrait

BURTONSVILLE — Paul Piskunowicz, a Burtonsville farmer for the past 10 years, won first prize at the 1952 Edmonton Exhibition with a self portrait painting.

Mr. Piskunowick, the father of two boys, ages 11 and 3, has never had an art lesson but has painted as a hobby for many years. He said, "I could paint before I could write my name and started painting long before I started school". He also does a little painting in oil.

Being an ardent farmer, he finds little time to devote to his artistic talents but, during the winter months when the weather is stormy, he takes up his sketching pad and passes the hours. He does quite a bit of hunting during the fall and, in addition to a gun, he arms himself with a sketch pad and pencil and sketches wild life which, he claims, are his favorite subjects.

When asked if he had considered taking up art seriously, he remarked that, being a farmer, he hasn't had time to give it much thought but is being urged by those who know art to begin studying.

LARGE PERCENTAGE OF DISTRICT CHILDREN HAVE HEALTH DEFECTS

By MRS. SOMERVILLE, R.N.

PLAMONDON — In examining 265 school children in Plamondon, Charron, Avenir, Gourin and Old Trail districts in June of this year, 226 children were found to have defects that impair health and hinder normal body functions.

Forty-three were found with defective vision.

Sixty-three were found with diseased tonsils and adenoids.

One hundred and fourteen were found with unsound teeth.

Sixteen were found with faulty posture.

Fifty-nine were found to be underweight.

Glasses, when required, should be fitted by an eye specialist, an oculist. The glasses should fit the face properly and be kept in good repair. Bent frames prevent the lenses from giving the wearer the visual assistance they are meant to.

Tonsils that are not diseased will shrink when the child reaches early teens. If they are diseased however they will not shrink, and may be a source of frequent sore throat, colds, earache and

Westlock Generals Win Over Allstars

LAC LA BICHE — In a game played on August 3rd, Westlock Generals trounced Wandering River-Lac la Biche Allstars by a score of 8-2.

The game got off to a bad start as a sudden shower in the afternoon made the diamond a huge mud pie. Attempts were made to dry it up by burning diesel fuel at the bases. The game, scheduled for 3 p.m., didn't get under way until 5:30 p.m. as a result of the muddy field.

Wandering River held their own for the first half of the first inning, after which they seemed to slacken until about the 4th inning when spirits began to pick up. Up to the 4th inning the score was 6-0 for the Generals.

Westlock proved to have a well knit team with exceptional all-around players. During the second half of the game, however, Wandering River permitted their opponents only two scores and made two themselves, showing a marked improvement in their game.

The extension of two new offices on the Lac la Biche Division Forestry Headquarters building is nearly completed. One of the new offices will be used by the Fisheries Branch, turning the old fisheries office into a waiting room. The other new addition will be the timber inspectors' private office and will relieve the crowded atmosphere of the general office giving the field rangers room to compile their reports.

Mrs. Clara Ostiguy is resting comfortably at home after spending seven weeks in St. Catherines Hospital with a heart ailment.

Mr. David Langevin, now with the Department of Public Works at Venice, and his brother, Ernest Langevin, who has been trucking in Bonnyville, were both home for their uncle's funeral, Aug. 6.

The following, relatives of the deceased John Langevin, travelled from St. Vincent to attend the funeral, August 6, 1952,: Georges Langevin, Ernest Farand, Leon Brousseau and wife, Yvonne Brousseau, Laura Brousseau, and Therese Langevin.

Grain Congestion Ahead

Wheat harvesting has started in Manitoba and will spread westward as the season advances. With good weather conditions, a good start in wheat cutting will be made in southeastern Alberta in a couple of weeks' time.

For some time it has been quite apparent that this coming harvest season will witness one of the most serious congestions in grain handling that has been experienced since the war years. Insofar as the Wheat Board, elevator companeis and railways are concerned, not a great deal can be done about the situation. The end of the United States steel strike has only aggravated conditions, for lake shipping will now go to ore carrying.

Providing of farm storage seems to be the only course left open to grain producers.

Municipal, Provincial, Federal

The overwhelming majority with which the Social Credit party has been returned to office in the Provincial Legislature leads us along two or three avenues of thought.

For one thing, several able mayors, reeves and councillors who have held office in municipal government, ably and with the support of a majority of the people in their district, did not get the same support when they tried to gain office on the Provincial level of politics. Perhaps Albertans are more selective of personalities in local government while in the Provincial sphere they just vote the straight party ticket.

They are, of course, exceptions to this. Reeve Aloisio of the Municpial District of Athabasca was elected to the legislature as a Social Crediter. But, on the other hand, Reeve Evjen of Stony Plain and the Mayor of Morinville were each defeated in the Provincial election.

So often, too, it seems to us, the same electors who send a Liberal to Ottawa, elect a Social Crediter for the Legislature at Edmonton, meanwhile returning, year after year, Reeves and Councillors who are definitely Liberal or C.C.F. in party politics.

We, therefore, seem to operate on three standards of politics for three levels of government. It seems unfortunate that men who are qualified by years of public service in local politics are denied the privilege of "moving up" the scale.

The Whooping Crane

Two workers for the United States Field and Wild Life Service recently announced, after a trip over the Arctic, they had discovered breeding grounds of the almost extinct whooping crane. Ornothologists have sought this hide-away in vain for more than 50 years.

The whooping crane is thought to be down to about 35 in number, and annually flies from the Arctic down to the Texas Coast. Bird lovers have long sought its breeding ground, so as to protect it from the inroads of hunters and other dangers, so that the birds might survive.

The two U.S. Field and Wild Life Service workers, who discovered the breeding ground, flying in an amphibious plane, brought their craft down to 100 feet over the birds and took photographs. There is little doubt that the two men have discovered the long-sought breeding ground of the bird that is said to be audible at a two-mile distance when he whoops.

Though some of us may not appreciate the significance of this scientific discovery, genuine died-in-the-wool bird lovers were thrown into a tizzy by news of the last whooping crane development. That discovery probably means, among other things, that one of these days in the future you will hear the whoop of a whooping crane.

Big Crop

Present prospects indicate a big wheat crop for Western Canada and possibly a record one. Early frosts or bad harvesting weather may prevent the realization of same, but present prospects appear excellent.

The biggest crop of wheat in Canada's history was produced in 1928, the total being 566,726,000 bushels, of which the prairie provinces produced 544,598,000 bushels.

In 1942 Canada produced 556,684,000 bushels, of which 529,000,000 came from the prairie provinces. The 1951 production of wheat was the second largest in the nation's history—562,395,000 bushels, of which total the prairie provinces produced 531 million.

The Prolonged Peace Negotiations

Latest efforts of the peace negotiators in the little village of Panmunjom have been unsuccessful. There had been optimism about a month ago when the Communists asked for secret meetings because in the past when the Communists were ready to make concessions they have asked for secret meetings. Open discussions are used by the Reds mainly for propaganda purposes.

The official summary of the secret meetings released by the United Nations makes it quite clear the conferees were still deadlocked over the issue involving the exchange of prisoners of war.

The United Nations with about 170,000 prisoners takes the position that only those prisoners who desire to be returned should be returned to Communist territory. The Reds with about 12,000 prisoners demand that all prisoners be returned regardless of their wishes.

About the only new development was the indication by the Chinese delegation that if the 20,000 Chinese prisoners were returned, the Communists would be willing to forget about some of the North Korean prisoners. Major General William K. Harrison, Jr., senior Allied delegate, said no to this proposal.

General Harrison has about lost faith in the possibility of any settlement. In coming out of a recent meeting he exclaimed to newspaper correspondents that he was "fed up with the (Communists') utter hypocrisy."

Exploring the Ocean Depths

In an article in the Scientific Monthly, Dr. K. O. Emery of the United States Geological Survey, discussed diving bells and the trend to the use of underwater cameras as being more efficient and safer.

Back in 1934, William Beebe and Otis Barton, in a diving bell called a bathysphere, descended to a depth of 3,000 feet to study the plants and fish that live there. Five years later Barton went down 1,500 feet further in his benthoscope to set what still remains as the record.

In 1941, Dr. Maurice Ewing demonstrated the possibilities of the camera by photographing the bottoms of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans at depths up to 1,200 feet. Later he was able to make pictures 18,000 feet below.

The first multi-shot camera was invented in 1950 by Robert Dietz. Previously cameras had to be raised and reloaded after each exposure. At Bikini Atoll, the Navy used an underwater television transmitter.

Probably, the oldest of the underwater cameras, is the benthograph, devised by Maurice Nelles, Perry Stile, William Fortin and Capt. Allan Hancock. The benthograph is a globe 39 inches in diameter, equipped with a multi-shot camera and other instruments. Light from axenon flashtube is turned on and off every 30 to 60 seconds.

The benethograph is lowered from a boat by a winch. When bottom has been reached it is registered on a cable strain meter. The globe is then raised about 100 feet to wash the mud off the quartz-glass windows, and then the benthograph is ready to record the facts of life down under the depths.

A PASTOR'S COMMENT

Several have congratulated you upon your editorials regarding Christian teaching and revival. I gladly join this group in expressing appreciation. However, I should like to state that "another Wesley" would not meet the need. Let all Christians live nearer to God—and become more and more Christ centered. This more than anything else will meet the need of this or any other age.

John Wesley was a great power for good in his day. The influence of his life still goes on—will never cease. Few people realize that Wesley worked for great social changes, as prison reform, abolition of slavery, etc. Wesley's sermons are very different from those of modern evangelists, in that they were on a high intellectual level, and were written in full before they were delivered.

John Wesley, great leader though he was, had serious shortcomings. His marriage was a complete failure. So much so that he did not live with his wife except for a few months.

Moreover, Wesley had very foolish ideas in regard to ghosts, actually believing that graveyards and certain houses were haunted. It must also be noted that Wesley spent a great deal of time and energy in controversy, especially with the Calvinists. Today many of us feel that such controversies are a sinful waste of time.

Despite all this, Wesley was greatly used of God. Still, may I say that the great need of today is that all God's people may daily pray:

"Close to Thee, close to Thee,
All along my pilgrim journey,
Saviour, let me walk with Thee."

COLORFUL LICENSE PLATES

Recently, I have had an opportunity to observe some tourists' cars, and was pleased to see how decorative some license plates were. Some depicted the coat of arms or a descriptive phrase of their state or province.

Quoting some of these phrases. Saskatchewan, "The Wheat Province"; Kansas, "The Wheat State". Florida, "Sunshine State"; Maine, "Vacationland", while Wyoming has a bucking horse, Quebec has a Fleur-de-lis, Prince Edward Island the coat of arms.

The most colorful and attractive was Yukon, N.W.T., which read "Land of the Midnight Sun" and showed an RCMP holding a ball representing the sun.

I say let Alberta decorate her license plates with a colorful oil derrick or a phrase such as "The Oil Province". We are proud of our province, so let's display our pride throughout other provinces and states.

Come on you Alberta motorists. Advertising our province in this manner will lure more tourists. It will also give us farmers a chance to stick out our chests, since we cannot boast about the price of our farm products. Minus our two front teeth, in twenty years we'll take a holiday and come back with a tankful of gas. "Like the little moron who travelled miles and miles to obtain cheaper gas and used it all up before he got back".

Heave Ho! and push together for colorful license plates for 1954.

"A CASUAL OBSERVER".

More Expense While Waiting

"The average rural teacher's salary is $967 a year," said the man, "while the city teacher gets twice as much."

"Well," replied the woman, "it takes them twice as long to find a husband in town."

Why Not?

One of our waitresses, at the breakfast hour, served coffee and toast to a patron; 10 minutes later she breezed in with the orange juice. The customer complained of the sequence. "Are you married?" asked the waitress. "Yes," said the customer, "what's that got to do with it?" "Well," says our dilemma, "why don't you have breakfast at home?"

"Oh, yes, I was afraid all the time it wouldn't go like I said it would. And it didn't."

Poor Diagnosis

During a fire in the night, the tenants of an apartment hotel rushed into the street carrying their most prized possessions. One woman noticed that the gentleman who lived directly above her was carrying a large, covered bird cage.

"What have you there?" she asked out of curiosity.

"That's my pet rooster," said the man.

The woman gasped and fainted. When she was revived she told her anxious neighbor, "I'm sorry I fainted, but you see, I've been under treatment by a psychiatrist for the past year because I kept hearing a rooster crowing!"

Wags We Can Do Without

The businessman was fast asleep in his hotel room when the phone rang. It rang for a full minute before he awakened. He picked up the receiver sleepily.

"Long distance calling!" an operator sang out. "Here is your party".

"Okay," yawned the businessman. "Hello!"

"What's that?" cried the voice at the other end.

"I said 'hello!'" The businessman paused.

"Well," he demanded, "what do you want?"

"Nothing," answered the voice, "absolutely nothing."

The other saw red.

"What!" he roared. "If you didn't want anything, why do you call me at three in the morning?"

"That's simple," replied the voice cheerily. "The night rate is cheaper!"

WHAT'S IN THE NAME

By STEVE GUSHTA

Spedden Correspondent

This column, which is being presented weekly, has a two-fold purpose: first, to bring to the readers a word picture of the different Alberta hamlets, villages, towns and cities. Some of these names you are no doubt familiar with, others of which are obscure in your minds—that such so-named settlements exist. Secondly, the name origin of each hamlet, village, town, or city dealt with will be brought forth to better acquaint the reading public with these various place names of the oil province of Canada, Alberta.

VILNA

The Village of Vilna with a population of around 322, that was the figure taken from the 1946 census, and the present population is much higher, is suituated principally in a farming district.

Vilna was named after Vilna in Galacia, by settlers who came from there. The first homesteaders arrived in the Vilna district in 1918 and 1919. Mr. Z. W. Mikitka was one of the first settlers and is still living in the district. The first school was erected in 1920. In 1929 a hospital was built and Dr. W. W. Eadie was the first resident doctor. The present doctor is Dr. P. W. Frobb. Vilna was incorporated as a village in 1924.

Sixty-one miles east and 35 miles north of Edmonton, Vilna is constituted of the following: one modern hotel; one restaurant; five garages and service stations; one barber ship; a pool hall; two shoe repairs; one electrical contractor; one drug store; one lumber yard; two egg grading stations; one creamery; four implement dealers; a theatre; a modern school; five grain elevators and many other business places.

CHIN

A hamlet of unknown population, Chin is located some 18 miles east of Lethbridge in a ranching and farming region.

The hamlet was named after a hill, coulee, and village from the Blackfoot word, "mistaomio," meaning "heard." This word described the shape of the hill when it was seen from a distance.

Our 5-year-old niece was watching her uncle pumping water and asked him, "Uncle, why do you take water out of our well?" He replied: "Because I haven't enough water in my well for the cattle." The young lady was in pensive mood as she thought out loud, "There's lots in our well, isn't there uncle?" and after a moment of silence, "That's because we haven't lived as long as you, uncle."

Maintain Standards of Sanitation

A. Wash Dishes thoroughly.

B. Wash Fruits and Vegetables.

C. Cover Garbage and Waste material.

D. Control Sewage — Outdoor Toilets should be dusted daily with Chloride of Lime or Ashes.

- Swimming is dangerous because it causes fatigue and is chilling.
- Watch your personal hygiene — be sure to wash your hands before eating and after using the toilet.
- Where the disease is prevalent, avoid the removal of tonsils, adenoids and teeth.

rheumatic pain. When inflamed, tonsils spread their infection throughout the body travelling via the blood stream.

Baby teeth should be filled at the first sign of cavity or decay to preserve them, till nature wants them replaced by the permanent teeth. Crooked teeth are often the result of too early loss of baby teeth allowing the remaining baby teeth to crowd into the space meant for the permanent teeth. Crooked teeth decay more rapidly than evenly spaced teeth. The sixth-year molar (count from the centre towards the back teeth; the sixth tooth is the six-year molar) is frequently mistaken for a baby tooth that will fall out later anyway. This is a permanent tooth and comes in when the child is around six or seven years of age. At that time he may have a mixture of baby teeth and permanent teeth in his mouth and the error in recognizing this tooth as permanent, is frequently made.

Unhealthy gums were found in far too many children. No matter how good the teeth are, if the gums are neglected pyorrhoea takes over and all the teeth are eventually lost anyway. Table salt and baking soda mixed half and half, make up a good dentrifice. Along with proper tooth brushing and good mouth hygiene, the gums can be restored to sound health. Pyorrhoea can be prevented. Encourage the children to learn the habit of regular mouth care by setting the example. Practically all the common diseases encountered in these times, enter the body through the mouth and nose. It is my contention that the mouth and nose are the dirtiest cavities in the human body. They should be kept clean and all discharges from them burned to prevent the spread of disease. In some cases, unhealthy pulpy red gums are due to vitamin C deficiency. Vitamin C is found in citrus fruits, lemons, oranges, grapefruit, tomatoes, and in raw cabbage, as well as many of the other foods, though in smaller amounts.

The association of underweight and poor posture (sloping or round shoulders) are frequently due to the rapid growth stage accompanied by tiredness, in the fast-growing child. The rapidly growing child requires extra rest and extra body-building foods to match his rate of growth. No tired underfed child has the energy to hold his body erect. It takes too much effort, he tires and his body sags. This sag thows the organs in the body out of line and lays the foundation for future trouble.

All mothers want the best for their children and toil daily to achieve the best. Sometimes one's efforts do not seem to bring out the results we expect. When this happens we need to give serious consideration to the matter and seek the proper answers. All children are individuals and therefore different each from the other, and each needs consideration of he, himself, as a person.

To mothers who have difficulty getting all the foods they would like to give their children I would point out three essential daily needs for all growing children. They are one pint of milk, half an orange or its equivalent, and one cod liver oil capsule containing Vitamin D 400 International Units. With these three essentials as the basis of the daily diet of all growing children met, vegetables, fruits, whole grain cereals and breads, meat, fish, cheese, etc., will give them a well-rounded diet.

A healthy child is a happy child and we want all our chidren healthy and happy so they will grow into healthy, happy, well-adjusted self-supporting adults.

Toward the latter part of September, the travelling Chest Clinic will be in the Boyle to Lac la Biche area, and it is their desire to x-ray everybody. This is done free of charge, so be ready to take this opportunity to have the family x-rayed. The date will be posted early in September.

I will be leaving the Plamondon District to take further post-graduate study on September 10. My stay here has been a happy one and I will look back upon these two years here with some humble pride in the work we have accomplished together. My best wishes to all of you, and may we meet again.

FAR EAST BOUND — To the Canadian Pacific Steamships' 10,000 ton cargo vessel Maplecove goes the honor of being the first company ship to return to Pacific service since World War II. The ship, which sailed from Montreal recently, is headed for Vancouver, where she will take on the balance of her cargo. The route for the new service will be between Tacoma, Seattle Vancouver, Yokohama, Kobe, Manila, Cebu, Hong Kong and Nagoya, and late in September the Maplecove will be joined by her sister ship Mapledell, to offer a monthly service between these ports. Formerly the Beaverdell and Beavercove, both these vessels were on regular CPS Atlantic service before the changeover. Lower right shows Maplecove's skipper Captain R. A. Leicester of Vancouver, in the chartroom of his ship, studying the route the vessel will sail, while lower left shows a cargo sling with a load of Canadian produce bound for Yokohama, Japan, being loaded on the ship at Montreal. All-Canadian crews will staff the two ships.

Young Driver

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Although Donald C. Newman is only three he has been driving the family convertible for almost four months. Hiding the keys did little good. The boy would put the car in gear and press the starter. Finally, a neighbor called police when the child took off in her car. Then the little boy agreed with police that he would not drive any more until he is old enough to get a driver's permit.

Picnic Attracts Fair Crowd

FREEDOM — A fair crowd turned out for Freedom's picnic on the tenth. The first ball game played was between Westlock and Freedom. Score 2-1 for Freedom. While waiting for teams to show up, Shoal Creek and Freedom played a three-inning exhibition game. Score 3-1 for Freedom. The next game, Barrhead vs. Wandering River. The score was 8-1 for Barrhead. Shoal Creek and Freedom played over time in the next game, Shoal Creek getting the extra score 4-3. Barrhead and Shoal Creek played the final game, with Shoal Creek winning first money. A show was held in the hall, followed by a dance after twelve.

Letter to the Editor

Though this paper
May be small,
In variety of items
It beats them all.

The communties send
In items that are new,
Which are edited carefully
By Mr. T. W. Pue.

Most of us were ignorant
Of the communities around,
But, this paper has enlightened us
This we have found.

The classical ad section
Is really a honey,
It shows what I could buy
If I had the money.

The embarrassing moments
And the jokes add their thrill,
And help us more
Than a vitamin pill.

I think this paper
Deserves a high merit,
Because it preserves
The Community Spirit.

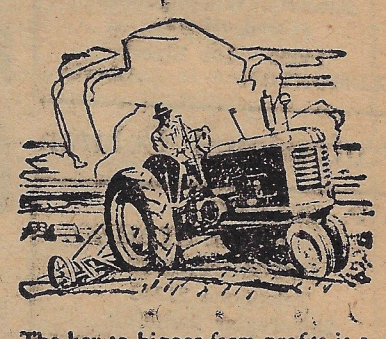
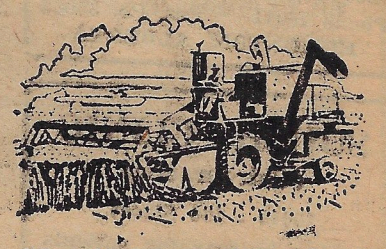
Machine-Made Profits Can be Yours, too



The key to bigger farm profits is a higher yield from your land and livestock. This generally means more manpower. But today, farm labour is both scarce and costly. This makes it necessary to investigate more economical methods. The answer is found in modern farm machinery and equipment. Many farmers do not have the considerable amount of cash needed for such an investment. Here is where Imperial Bank can help. It has always been ready to help enterprising farmers increase the production and profits of their farms by lending them money for such purchases.



A Farm Improvement Loan or Loans up to $5,000 can be obtained from your local Imperial Bank. You have up to seven years to pay it back depending on the amount borrowed and the purpose for which the money is to be used, with simple interest of 5%.

When purchasing a tractor or other equipment, be careful to select the right type and size for your farm. Make sure there is enough work for a machine, so that it will pay for itself and cover the cost of depreciation.

Loans for the purchase of farm implements may be obtained up to an amount of two-thirds of the cash price of the implement purchased.

Your Imperial Bank manager is always glad to discuss your financial problems with you. Drop in and have a chat with him.*

* Imperial Bank Farm Improvement Loans may also be obtained for the purchase of livestock, construction, repair or alteration of farm buildings or for any other worthwhile farm improvement.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa.

I come from a thrifty family who always liked to pay cash for what they bought and that is the problem I have now. I married a fine man three years ago and we are very happy and get along fine about everything but his ideas on buying.

He never wants to deny himself or me anything we happen to like. He wants to buy it on time and pay as we enjoy it. Now this would not be so bad if his wishes were in reason and we could see our way clear to paying for them but that is not so, in our case.

He makes a fair salary and has good prospects for advancement and at present we can afford a cheap car, a small house and ordinary clothes with which I would be very happy until we reach the stage where we can afford nices things. But not for him.

On my birthday he gave me a nice convertible and now has plans for a home we can ill afford. This means that we will not be able to put aside any money at all for a rainy day and if either of us should have an operation or he should lose his job we would lose everything we had put into these things.

What can I do? I am most unhappy about this state of affairs but I hate to hurt his feelings.

Answer: B.M.

I read an article a few days ago in which the writer stated that people who refused to plan their lives and lived beyond their means were emotionally immature. He said that it was due to infantilism and just having to have what they wanted when they wanted it. They couldn't deny themselves anything.

So, while it is time for your husband to grow up emotionally, I am not sure that you can do anything about it.

Why don't you suggest budgeting your income to your husband? If he would agree to put aside so much for insurance and a savings account, you could see what you have to spend on other things without endangering your future.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I am writing this hoping it will help some one who doesn't know what to do about a mother or mother-in-law who has been left alone without funds. My mother and husband get along nicely but neither of them were anxious to live in the same home. So we added on a nice big room with a small kitchenette and bath to our house and there mother lives and both of us enjoy our privacy. If she doesn't care to cook dinner, she occasionally eats with us, or I will send her a tray. It is nice to know she is there when I am away and the children are at home. We help each other in many ways but we do not annoy one another. B.N.

Farm Safety Crusade Needed

A national crusade is urgently needed to reduce the appalling loss of human lives, the suffering and misery, and the great losses of manpower and farm income caused by farm accidents in Canada. In the Prairie Provinces particularly, accidents continue to take a toll completely out of proportion to our farming population.

Staggering Losses. A recent report made by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that the Prairie Provinces, with about one-third of Canada's farming population, has 60% of the farm accidents. This is due to the fact that farming in Western Canada is more highly mechanized and intensified than in other parts of the country. No farmer should wait until the first, or another, accident occurs on his own farm before he enforces safety measures. The time is now! Tomorrow may be too late!

Think Safety, Act Safely. Here is a list of some of the types of individuals who are responsible for farm accidents:

"Hurry Harry", who never takes time to take care.

"Gambling Joe", who depends on luck, and takes wild, needless chances.

"Sloppy Sam", who never has anything in place, and disregards all safety rules.

"Hap Hazard", who is always in a hurry. He never plans ahead.

"Arsonic Al", who smokes in the barn and around inflammable liquids, and never bothers to label poisons.

Be sure and take the right attitude toward farm safety. The following slogan, which is now being widely publicized in the United States, contains the soundest advice we can give to prairie farmers—"Adopt right attitudes toward farm safety; think safety, act safely". Make every effort to prevent accidents during the present harvest season. The responsibility is yours. Your farm is as safe as you make it.

Wheat Cutting Starts In Southern Alberta

According to the Alberta Wheat Pool crop report cutting of wheat commenced last week in Southern Alberta. As far as the rest of the province is concerned, wheat harvesting will be later. The entire crop is earlier than last year, but later than normal.

Present prospcets indicate good yields of all grains in all parts of Alberta. Harvesting of rye is well advanced in the southeast and cutting of barley is fairly general. A start has been made in rye cutting elsewhere in the province and some barley will be ready during the coming week.

Growing conditions for the week ending August 9 were again favorable for crop development. Warm weather has continued, accompanied by thunder showers to light rains.

Crops have advanced rapidly and moisture in most areas is sufficient to fully mature crops. A number of points in east-central parts of the province report yields will be reduced somewhat if hot weather continues without further precipitation.

Alberta's crops should reach bumper proportions providing the weather remains favorable for the balance of the season. Generally speaking, the need is for warm dry weather to promote ripening.

Farmers are urged to take advantage of the time before harvest to build farm storage space as country elevators in many points are still holding much of last year's crops.

The harvest will be a hard one financially for farmers as the quotas have been set at five bushels for wheat and rye, and four bushels for oats and barley per seeded acre.

One day at school, during school time, I and two other boys went into the cloakroom to get a drink of water. Suddenly I got an idea. Wanting to make the boys laugh, I took one of the girl's caps and pulled it over my eyes, then I took two brooms and pretending they were crutches I hopped around on one foot. Some one walked into the cloakroom. Thinking is was one of the boys, I made a funny face, put the brooms under my arms and looking up, pulled the cap off my eyes. Imagine my embarrassment when I discovered the new onlooker was the teacher.

Colinton, Alta. T. T.

One winter a man by the name of Mr. Jackson stayed with us. He used to call our little girl Mary Anne "Suzie." She didn't like it, so one day she came crying to me in another room and said, "Mr. Jackson always calls me Suzie," so I whispered to her, "Call him Jackie." So she yells out to him, "Jackie, Jackie, mamma told me to call you Jackie." I sure was embarrassed. MRS. JOE HUDEC.

PROBLEM OF DELINQUENTS BLAMED ON PARENTS

LACOMBE — "The blame for the growing problem of juvenile delinquency lies squarely at the door of parents," Elmer R. Walde, Seventh-day Adventist church leader from Washington, D.C., told members attending the annual province-wide conference at Lacombe, recently.

"No school or church influences, however good, can wholly neutralize the effects of the home, which molds the child during the most impressionable years, the churchman stated.

Declaring that "there is no higher success than to raise a child to become a good citizen and a sincere Christian," Mr. Walde warned that "parental admonition will have little effect if children do not see principles of honesty, unselfishness and industry put in practice by father and mother."

In a special service marking the centennial of the church's first Sabbath school, the Seventh-day Adventist with the longest record in Alberta for Sabbath school attendance was honored.

The man was 85-year-old Alton V. Farnsworth of Cassils, who began his attendance record 83 years ago in the first Seventh-day Adventist Church ever organized —in Washington, New Hampshire. Mr. Farnsworth homesteaded in Sonningdale, Sask., in 1910, and ten years later moved to Cassils.

The Adventist Sabbath school organization marked its centennial year by passing the million mark in membership throughout the world. During the 100 years, $80 million have been contributed to foreign missions projects now carried on in every major country of the world. This is nearly half of all the foreign missions funds the denomination has raised during the century.

The 2,000 visitors at the meeting Saturday gave $7,675 for Evangelism in the Alberta Conference and for foreign missions.

Pastor Roland Carlill, in charge of the Lethbridge Seventh-day Adventist Church, was ordained to the gospel ministry in a service presided over by Pastor Walter A. Nelson, Oshawa, Ont., head of the church for Canada.

Rural Power For Baby Pigs

Farmers who have trouble raising baby pigs should be strong advocates of rural electrification. This is the opinion of Mr. Fitzpatrick, supervisor of Co-op Activities for the Alberta Government.

At a banquet in Sangudo last week, held by the Paddle Valley Rural Electrification Association to mark turning on of power, Mr. Fitzpatrick said a sun lamp was just the thing to keep baby pigs healthy. One farmer using this system claims he saves one pig from each litter that would likely otherwise die and the extra income from pigs alone goes a long way towards paying for the power used on his farm.

In our opinion teachers and policemen are underpaid.

Science Laboratory Produces New Gem To Out-Dazzle Diamond

Man's dream of producing a crystal brighter than a diamand has at last been realized. Out of the Science laboratory comes a gem of such sparkle and hardness that New York Times reports "It out-dazzles the diamond."

Canadians will be proud to learn the original natural crystal comes out of the mines at Allard Lake, 400 miles north of Quebec. Tanya is not an imitation, substitute, or synthetic diamond. It is the natural crystal recreated by the laboratory into the most brilliant gem now known to man. This is the jewel that Reader's Digest, Saturday Evening Post, Star Weekly and others told their readers "here at last is a gem for all the people, with more 'fire' and brilliance than any diamond, at one-tenth the price."

People have been denied the pleasure of wearing beautiful jewels in spite of the fact that nature has been lavish in countless rare and exotic crystals. High prices fixed by monopolies have made the prices of these germs prohibitive to most people. Science now provides a jewel with more "fire" and brilliance than any gem on earth at a price within the reach of all.

When nature formed the diamond, ages ago in her flaming crucible, another was also formed known as Titanium Rutile. This little known and neglected stone always had a refractive index (brilliance) above diamond. The research chemist dreamed of the day when he would remove the dark ugly stain from this crystal and give the world a gem with a dazzling, flashing, radiance and color such as the eyes of man had never before seen.

The momentous research that transformed this worthless natural stone into a jewel of breathtaking brilliance ended with final success in June, 1948. The story in the Star Weekly says: "The chemist, Dr. C. Moore, Jr., was experimenting with Titanium in a furnace he had designed. He noticed some crystals forming in the intense heat. The doctor immediately tested them for hardness, brilliance and color and found them identical with the natural Titanium Rutile crystal.

The Cinderella gem of Science was born. The ugly stain that veiled its brilliance for ages was forever gone and out of its pure crystalline depths streamed the white and blue of the diamond in higher intensity blended with "fire" of the opal, the spring green of the emerald all in one blaze of pure prismatic colors. They called the new born gems Tanya after its mother element Titanium.

The first tests for brilliance in Canada were made April 17, 1950, at the physics department, University of Toronto. Dr. M. F. Crawford. Ph.D., F.R.S.C., in his letter states: "The refractive index (brilliance) of this gem is appreciably above diamond. The index of a diamond is 2.42. The index of Tanya is 2.62. This scientific proof settles the question as to which is now the most brilliant gem.

On February 26, 1951, Time magazine stated in its science column: "Tanya in "fire" and brillance surpasses diamond." The dispersion of diamond is twice that of common glass, but the dispersion of Tanya is seven times as much." This settles the question as to which gem has the most "fire."

The Association of American Jewellers give their evaluation of the new gem in an article by Dr. F. W. Pough, curator of minerals, Mueseum of Natural History, New York: "This new and emazing gem is clearly so remarkable for its dispersion that it is not fair to compare it with any other gem. Its pure prismatic colors are almost unbelievable. Its "fire" cannot be approached by a diamond for it has more "fire" than a diamond has ever shown." Tanya is a recreated jewel of incomparable brilliance and "fire." With these measured words the experts give Tanya the first place among the gems of earth.

How long will the brilliance last? Will it go milky like a zircon or go dull like the others. The Industrial Research Laboratories carried out physical and chemical tests "approximating what would happen to a ring in 50 years constant wear." These tests were detailed in the Official Journal of The Canadian Jewellers' Association October, 1950. After all the tests "The Tanya was not in any way affected."

Tanya is something much more than the most beautiful and brilliant gem, to thousands it is already the symbol of happiness. This little orb of radiant light and color reminds them always that the Cinderella story has come true. The ugly dark forgotten pebble is now the dazzling, flashing jewel of enduring loveliness.

"An amazingly beautiful gem, not quite as hard as a diamond BUT FAR MORE BRILLIANT."

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO, April 10, 1950
"This gem has a refractive index (brilliance) appreciably above diamond." (Diamond 2.42, Tanya 2.62)

TRADER AND CANADIAN JEWELLER
"Tests for permanent brilliance, approximating sixty years' wear by Industrial Research Laboratories. . . . Its brilliance was not IN ANY WAY affected . . . it remained unchanged."

THE STAR WEEKLY, February 2, 1951
"The new wonder gem of Science combines the blue of the Mediterranean, the fire of the opal, the spring green of the emerald with more sparkle than diamonds."

TIME MAGAZINE, February 26, 1951
"In some respects the new Tanya Gems are better than the real thing", they surpass diamond in sparkle and "fire."

OFFICIAL JOURNAL OF JEWELLERS ASSOCIATION
"Its "life" and beauty cannot be approached by the diamond for it has much more "fire" than a diamond has ever shown. Tanya is a re-created natural crystal of incomparable brilliance and "fire". Dr. F. W. Pough.

District Man Dies As Ditch Caves In

LAC LA BICHE — Thirty-six-year-old John Langevin of Lac La Biche met his death at 11:25 Saturday, August 2nd, owing to a fractured skull and other injuries sustained when the ground caved in on him while working in a water and sewage disposal ditch in the town.

At the time of the accident, Mr. Langevin was engaged in clearing the casing supports from the ditch a few yards in front of the large caterpillar that filled in the ditches after pipes had been laid. Little Anne-Jeanette Onifrew, who was playing near the ditch, was the first to notice the accident. She called to the cat. driver and he stopped his machine and ran to the ditch, where he found Langevin's body almost completely covered except for his head.

Within a short while a crew of volunteers began digging operations and Dr. Brinsmead was notified. Local RCMP were standing by. It took approximately 15 minutes to get the body free of the debris. Reports say Mr. Langevin lived only a few minutes after he was excavated. Father Cabana, who was called to the scene, performed the last rites.

A coroner's inquest held on August 7 determined the tragedy to be purely accidental. The caterpillar operator was judged free of criminal neglect. No blame was caused to be laid against the Water and Sewage Disposal Company which employed Mr. Langevin. Const. Kennedy, RCMP, conducted the inquest and Dr. Brinsmead acted as coroner. The jurors were six local farmers and business men.

Funeral services were held at the St. Catherine's Church in Lac la Biche on Wednesday, August 6, at 10 a.m. Services were conducted by Fathers McGrane, Cabana and Breaire. Pallbearers were the deceased's six nephews, Ernest and David Langevin, Leonel and Edward Langevin, Joe Bouvier, and Leopole Langevin. His body was taken to the Lac la Biche Mission for burial. Many friends and relations attended the services, including his fellow-workers and employer.

Mr. Langevin was a well-known farmer of the Lac la Biche Mission district, and had taken employment with the water works during slack season on the farm. He is survived by his mother and dad, three brothers and two sisters.
